

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS!

THE GENUINE POPULAR

Punch Cigars

HAVE THE INITIALS

G. B. &amp; Co.,

Imprinted on Each Cigar.

Garney, Brown &amp; Co. Mfr's.

COURT HOUSE SQUARE

DR. H. B. WARE

SPECIALIST.

EYE, EAR, NOSE AND THROAT.

OFFICE HOURS: 12 TO 6 P. M.

135 WYOMING AVE.

PERSONAL.

W. H. Hagen is in New York on business.

Arthur Long, of Wilkes-Barre, is at the Westminster.

George White, of Tunkhannock, is at the Valley house.

C. S. Horton, of Williamsport, was in Scranton yesterday.

Miss Bristol, of Hasler's millinery, has returned from New York.

Colonel W. A. Stone is a candidate for congress in the Twenty-third district.

J. W. Russell, formerly of this city and now of Allentown, is at the Valley House.

Philo H. Lee, of Binghamton, and H. B. Wilkins, of Nicholson, are at the Valley House.

E. D. Wright, of Binghamton, and M. V. Emery, of Williamsport, were at the Wyoming yesterday.

Among the well known Wilkes-Barreans in the city yesterday were W. D. Boers and Thomas Graeme.

J. N. Thomas, president of the Pittston Exeter Iron works, was in the city on business yesterday.

C. H. Dorfinger, of White Mills, and Mrs. W. F. Snyder and Miss Peterson, of Honesdale, were in Scranton yesterday.

Prominent guests of the Valley house yesterday were H. B. Anstett, of Milton; F. L. Tichenor, of Binghamton; and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jones, of Nanticoke.

G. A. Kotzwinkle, president of Cigar Makers' union No. 23, of Scranton, returned from Carbondale after a two days' absence, during which he assisted at the funeral of a member of the Cigar Makers' union by the name of J. E. Hoover, who had no relatives living. Mr. Hoover was buried in St. Rose cemetery. The services were held in St. Rose church.

Hon. B. K. Focht, editor of the Saturday News, Lewisburg, Pa., is a candidate for the legislature. Mr. Focht has had a remarkable record since his advent in politics. He nominated his brother-in-law, Harold McClure, of Sunbury, for judge of Union county, against Judge Bruchman, after one of the warmest and most exciting political battles of 1891, had the satisfaction of seeing his relative elected to the bench by a handsome majority.

JUMPING FROM A BALLOON.

Miss Hazel Keyes Tells How It Feels to Meet the Earth.

Mrs. Romig is a pleasant, bright-eyed, capable looking little personage of modest demeanor and methods of conversation.

She has been engaged in ballooning for a number of years. Professionally she is known as Miss Hazel Keyes, balloonist and parachute jumper.

She was a trained nurse by profession and engaged in aerobatics because her husband's health failed him, and she found it necessary to do something more lucrative than nursing, and as he was a professional aeronaut, and she had gathered quite an interest and knowledge of the business from him, she determined to enter his field and win in a rapid way the income that was necessary for the schooling of her three children, the maintenance of the family generally and the added expense of his illness. She says she has succeeded amply in her undertaking, and though Mr. Romig's health is greatly improved she has no special desire to relinquish the business.

Asked to explain as clearly as possible the sensations peculiar to the ascent and descent of a person to and from the extraordinary altitudes to which she travels, Mrs. Romig said:

"The sensations are diametrically opposite to the general idea that prevails among people who never ascend to the heights. Instead of feeling yourself lifted bodily and swiftly up into space, you have a realistic sense of staying just exactly where you were and of the earth falling away and downward from you. This feeling continues just so long as your balloon continues to rise. When it comes to a standstill, you realize for the first time that you have moved upward, and of course the wonderful panorama spread out below you gives you instant advice of the immense altitude you have attained.

"The descent from such a tremendous height by the parachute is another thing, though it, too, involves something of the same sensation. You seem to see the earth ascending to meet you, but your progress downward is so gentle and so much more deliberate that you cannot but know you are going down. This fact is forcibly impressed upon your mind when you cut loose from the balloon.

"The descent, then, until the parachute fills is as sheer and sudden and direct as any unprepared fall you ever experienced, ranging in depth, according to the volume of wind, from 25 to 100 feet, and this is the most unpleasant part of my business. The same precaution of holding the breath is as imperative as necessary in this first fall as it is when you are submerged in the water, and in default of such precaution you are equally liable to strangulation and death as in the water."

In response to a question as to the longest jump she had made in her career as an aeronaut, Mrs. Romig said that in 1890, at Baker's beach, inside the Golden Gate, at San Francisco, she made a perfectly successful jump from an altitude determined by mathematical instruments to be just a fraction over 2½ miles. She alighted in the bay, but being fully protected with a life preserver—which she always dons when exhibiting near water—she was all right when picked up by the boatman who went instantly to her relief.

Mrs. Romig says, "The easiest place in which to land is a body of water or a plowed field, but of the two I prefer the field."

—Oregon Statesman.

A Portrait of Lewis Cass.

The state department received from the New York descendants of Lewis Cass a half length oil portrait of the general, who was secretary of war and minister to France under Jackson, inside the Golden Gate, at San Francisco, she made a perfectly successful jump from an altitude determined by mathematical instruments to be just a fraction over 2½ miles. She alighted in the bay, but being fully protected with a life preserver—which she always dons when exhibiting near water—she was all right when picked up by the boatman who went instantly to her relief.

Mrs. Romig says, "The easiest place in which to land is a body of water or a plowed field, but of the two I prefer the field."

—Oregon Statesman.

A Portrait of Lewis Cass.

The state department received from the New York descendants of Lewis Cass a half length oil portrait of the general, who was secretary of war and minister to France under Jackson, inside the Golden Gate, at San Francisco, she made a perfectly successful jump from an altitude determined by mathematical instruments to be just a fraction over 2½ miles. She alighted in the bay, but being fully protected with a life preserver—which she always dons when exhibiting near water—she was all right when picked up by the boatman who went instantly to her relief.

Mrs. Romig says, "The easiest place in which to land is a body of water or a plowed field, but of the two I prefer the field."

—Oregon Statesman.

A Portrait of Lewis Cass.

The state department received from the New York descendants of Lewis Cass a half length oil portrait of the general, who was secretary of war and minister to France under Jackson, inside the Golden Gate, at San Francisco, she made a perfectly successful jump from an altitude determined by mathematical instruments to be just a fraction over 2½ miles. She alighted in the bay, but being fully protected with a life preserver—which she always dons when exhibiting near water—she was all right when picked up by the boatman who went instantly to her relief.

Mrs. Romig says, "The easiest place in which to land is a body of water or a plowed field, but of the two I prefer the field."

—Oregon Statesman.

A Portrait of Lewis Cass.

The state department received from the New York descendants of Lewis Cass a half length oil portrait of the general, who was secretary of war and minister to France under Jackson, inside the Golden Gate, at San Francisco, she made a perfectly successful jump from an altitude determined by mathematical instruments to be just a fraction over 2½ miles. She alighted in the bay, but being fully protected with a life preserver—which she always dons when exhibiting near water—she was all right when picked up by the boatman who went instantly to her relief.

Mrs. Romig says, "The easiest place in which to land is a body of water or a plowed field, but of the two I prefer the field."

—Oregon Statesman.

A Portrait of Lewis Cass.

The state department received from the New York descendants of Lewis Cass a half length oil portrait of the general, who was secretary of war and minister to France under Jackson, inside the Golden Gate, at San Francisco, she made a perfectly successful jump from an altitude determined by mathematical instruments to be just a fraction over 2½ miles. She alighted in the bay, but being fully protected with a life preserver—which she always dons when exhibiting near water—she was all right when picked up by the boatman who went instantly to her relief.

Mrs. Romig says, "The easiest place in which to land is a body of water or a plowed field, but of the two I prefer the field."

—Oregon Statesman.

A Portrait of Lewis Cass.

The state department received from the New York descendants of Lewis Cass a half length oil portrait of the general, who was secretary of war and minister to France under Jackson, inside the Golden Gate, at San Francisco, she made a perfectly successful jump from an altitude determined by mathematical instruments to be just a fraction over 2½ miles. She alighted in the bay, but being fully protected with a life preserver—which she always dons when exhibiting near water—she was all right when picked up by the boatman who went instantly to her relief.

Mrs. Romig says, "The easiest place in which to land is a body of water or a plowed field, but of the two I prefer the field."

—Oregon Statesman.

A Portrait of Lewis Cass.

The state department received from the New York descendants of Lewis Cass a half length oil portrait of the general, who was secretary of war and minister to France under Jackson, inside the Golden Gate, at San Francisco, she made a perfectly successful jump from an altitude determined by mathematical instruments to be just a fraction over 2½ miles. She alighted in the bay, but being fully protected with a life preserver—which she always dons when exhibiting near water—she was all right when picked up by the boatman who went instantly to her relief.

Mrs. Romig says, "The easiest place in which to land is a body of water or a plowed field, but of the two I prefer the field."

—Oregon Statesman.

A Portrait of Lewis Cass.

The state department received from the New York descendants of Lewis Cass a half length oil portrait of the general, who was secretary of war and minister to France under Jackson, inside the Golden Gate, at San Francisco, she made a perfectly successful jump from an altitude determined by mathematical instruments to be just a fraction over 2½ miles. She alighted in the bay, but being fully protected with a life preserver—which she always dons when exhibiting near water—she was all right when picked up by the boatman who went instantly to her relief.

Mrs. Romig says, "The easiest place in which to land is a body of water or a plowed field, but of the two I prefer the field."

—Oregon Statesman.

A Portrait of Lewis Cass.

The state department received from the New York descendants of Lewis Cass a half length oil portrait of the general, who was secretary of war and minister to France under Jackson, inside the Golden Gate, at San Francisco, she made a perfectly successful jump from an altitude determined by mathematical instruments to be just a fraction over 2½ miles. She alighted in the bay, but being fully protected with a life preserver—which she always dons when exhibiting near water—she was all right when picked up by the boatman who went instantly to her relief.

NEWS FROM WEST SIDE

Happenings of a Day That Will Interest Hyde Park Readers.

ROYAL ARCANUM ENTERTAINING

Funeral of Mrs. Isaac B. Morgan.

Social of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Washburn Street Presbyterian Church—Street Commissioner Kirt Cleaning Up the Streets—Funeral of Mrs. Thomas Johns.

The West Side office of the SCRANTON TRIBUNE is located at 125 South Main avenue, where subscriptions, advertisements and communications will receive prompt attention.

The members of Royal Arcanum, No. 1153, met in their headquarters in Clark's hall last evening and gave an entertainment of a most pleasing nature. The movement was for the purpose of bringing the members in social contact and increasing interest in the organization. Speeches were made by the different members and singing was indulged in. Refreshments consisting of coffee and sandwiches were served.

Mrs. Isaac B. Morgan Died.

The funeral of Mrs. Isaac B. Morgan, an aged and respected resident who died at her home after an extended illness with pneumonia, was largely attended yesterday. Many people gathered at the family home on North Bromley avenue, where brief but impressive services were conducted by Rev. W. S. Jones, pastor of the First Welsh Baptist church, of which the deceased was one of the oldest members. Undertaker William Price then conveyed the remains, followed by a large concourse of friends, to the First Welsh Baptist church. The auditorium of the church was crowded. Rev. W. S. Jones delivered the funeral sermon in an eloquent tone, doing justice to the memory of the departed one by recalling her many acts of kindness which so characterized her.

The remains were encased in a handsome black casket, upon which rested a large bouquet of white Easter lilies and a sheaf of wheat. The many other tokens showed the esteem in which she was held. After the services were concluded the funeral cortege moved out to Washburn street cemetery, where interment was made. The pall bearers were John Jenkins, Benjamin Hughes, J. T. Williams, John Hopkins, Thomas Howells and Henry P. Davies.

Interesting Entertainment.

The members and friends of the Christian Endeavor society of the Washburn Street Presbyterian church congregated in the church parlors on Tuesday evening, where an entertainment of a most pleasing nature was rendered. The object in view was to bring together in a social way the large number of members who were unacquainted. Refreshments were served, and an interesting programme rendered.

Removing the Mud.

Street Commissioner Kirt has answered the prayer of the residents on this side, as stated in yesterday morning's issue of this paper, and now has a gang of men at work removing the winter's supply of dirt from our asphalt pavement.

In Brief Form.

Mrs. Daniel Jenkins, of Pittston, attended the funeral of Mrs. Isaac B. Morgan yesterday.

The funeral of Mrs. Thomas Johns, of North Everett avenue, who died on Tuesday last, will take place tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Services will be conducted at the home of Rev. W. S. Jones, pastor of the First Welsh Baptist church. Interment will be made in the Washburn Street cemetery.

The eighth annual meeting of the Wyoming Congregational Sabbath School union will be held in the Welsh Congregational church at Providence on Tuesday and Wednesday, May 15 and 16, on which occasion Rev. George M. Boynton, of Boston, Mass., will deliver an address.

Dr. Thomas Jenkins, of Albany hospital, N. Y., is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Jenkins, on Jackson street.

The condition of Luther Lewis, of Eyon street, a patient at the Albany hospital, N. Y., is much improved.

Mrs. Henry J. Thomas, of Hampton street, is in receipt of a letter from London, England, informing her of the sudden death of her sister, Mrs. Eliza McLean, who died on Feb. 23.

Mrs. Thomas Jenkins, of Wilkes-Barre, has returned home after a visit with friends on the West Side.

Miss Sarah Jones, of Kingston, is the guest of friends on the West Side.

Arene Dunn and Mrs. Samuels, of Wilkes-Barre, are visiting relatives here.

St. David's lodge, Order of American True Iovites, will hold an extended session at St. David's hall on March 26. The chief prize will be $30 for the best rendition of "Evening Star," by a party of not more than thirty voices.

The seventh annual ball of the "Right Social club" will be held in Mear's hall on March 26.

The Dickson Banjo, Mandolin and Guitar club will hold an entertainment and social in Mear's hall in the near future.

On Saturday, March 10, from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m., we will give a beautiful bouquet to every customer who buys 50 cents worth of goods. Mear &amp; Hagen, 415 Lackawanna avenue.

DEATH ON THE RAIL.

Leonard Workner Run Down and Horribly Mangled.

Special to the Scranton Tribune.

CLARK'S CROSSING, March 7.—Leonard Workner, of La Plume, was run over and terribly mangled by No. 3 fast line about 3 p. m. today on the Glenburn fill.

He was walking on the down track and met a coal train and stepped over onto the up track in front of No. 3 and was instantly killed.

NEGRO TRAMPS WARNED.

Citizens of Monroe Will Take Steps to Drive Them from the County.

Special to the Scranton Tribune.

STROUDSBURG, Pa., March 7.—The citizens of Tannerville and vicinity, this county, numbering twenty or more, visited a negro camp about six miles from that place and gave the darkies to understand that they must leave the county at once. The citizens were armed with shotguns and revolvers and cowed the tramp darkies. They pleaded for mercy and some of them cried on account of fear.

They gave the armed citizens to understand that they had no money and would leave if they had help. There will likely be an exodus of these desperate characters from this county as soon as the people who live in the township are willing to see them go at the township's expense. These poor wretches are victims of circumstance. They were imported here by the officials of the new railroad and left to care for themselves.

The county is now suffering from an aftermath of crime of criminals imported during the construction of the road by cheap imported southern labor. Good citizens of this county now recognize that importation was itself a crime and are awaiting anxiously for the good old times of peace and safety.

ONLY 24 DAYS.

Fair and Timely Warning.

It is the intention of THE TRIBUNE management that those who have not avoided themselves of the offer of the encyclopedia at $1.98 per volume and so easy terms of payment may not overlook this chance of a life time. Do not wait till the last day. Get your set from the front of the heap. Remember that this edition is page for page with great Edinburgh which costs $800 with all the illustrations reproduced and an entirely new line of maps besides having nearly 2,000 pages of supplemental matter has been written since 1890. The Britannica stands the noblest work in all literature. It is a library in itself and with its index and marginal references is the most convenient of encyclopedias. Hundreds of homes have been supplied and will be made brighter and happier by its presence.

Remember that but 25 days remain in which to subscribe, at which the contract with the publishers expires. You can see the books during the day or evening at 437 Spruce street.

DURYEA DOINGS.

Political Palaver and Other News from a Hunting Town.

Special to the Scranton Tribune.

DURYEA, Pa., March 7.—James Jackson, the newly elected tax collector, assumes the responsibility of that position during the present week. He has filed bonds in the required amount, $4,500.

Messrs. Cogrove and Joyce, the two school directors elected at the recent election, will take their office the first Monday in June.

Henry Curly will be a candidate for treasurer of the school board. It being regarded as a matter of courtesy in the section of this office, and a custom heretofore adhered to, to give the preference to the member who served longest on the board, it is not probable that Mr. Curly will have any position.

The probability of a contest so much spoken of between John Winn, the defeated candidate for tax collector, and James Jackson, seems to have vanished.

The township auditors met during the week and accepted the bonds of the newly elected supervisors, Dennis Bradley and Paul Urban becoming security for James Monahan for the responsibility of that office.

Dennis Bradley has sufficiently recovered from an attack committed on him on election day, so as to be around. The attending physician was Dr. J. P. Morris.

Charles Ellis has accepted a position as hostler with the Fuller Coal company.

A pigsty on the Flynn estate was entered this week and two small pigs killed and mutilated. It was evidently the act of a bear, hunted from the mountains. He appeased his ferocious appetite by devouring the greatest portion of the two pigs.

The new literary society will hold their first meeting this evening. If the programme prepared, is a criterion to go by, and also the names of those who are to take part, those who attended will be repaid for their visit.

The parties who invaded the Pullman house a few evenings since and made off with several coats, are likely to be apprehended in a short time, as a clue to their identity has been discovered.

James Monahan, the newly elected supervisor, prior to the commencement of his duties connected with that office, entered the mines this week with intention of "clearing up" his chamber, and found a cave-in of tremendous proportions covering the entire place, which appeared perfectly safe after quitting work the previous evening. His almost miraculous escape is the topic of conversation among the superintendents, who contend that a vast amount of persons have met death at a time which they contemplate being their last day in the mine, with a view of pursuing a different vocation.

A Relic of Queen Elizabeth.

There is now in this city, in the possession of Mr. Charles A. Hewins, a valuable and interesting relic of "Good Queen Bess." It is a glove which was worn by her majesty at her coronation ceremonies, way back in the year of grace 1559. It is also interesting as an example of the glove-maker's art at that early day. Surprising as it may seem, it would be regarded as a very good gauntlet even now. It is a well known fact that the queen was possessed of a hand of more than ordinary size, and many of her courtiers grieved full sore at the vigorous way she had of using it to cut the ears of her presumptuous ones. Although this glove was never in all probability as tight fitting as a woman of rank would demand of a glove to dry for a coronation ball of the queen, yet it could not have been much too large, notwithstanding the size, according to the modern measures, is 8. As it lies on a background of blue velvet, carefully preserved from moth and dust by a frame of gold and glass, it shows little of its original beauty, was evidently of sheepskin, dressed white, and its ample gaiter was handsomely embroidered in gold with the orb, crown and ostrich plumes, the insignia of English royalty. Today the glove is gray and soiled, and the embroidery is black with tarnish, but its grace is still there.—Boston Transcript.

Should Be Arrested.

Too much space has already been accorded to Mrs. Montgomery, but the people who live in the neighborhood of Alder street and Kirt alley are tormented night and day by her and a woman named Weiss. Their drunken revelry seems to be without end. The police are ready to rid the place of them, if a case is made out. These women are ingenious enough to break the law daily and still not go far enough to warrant the officers taking a hand in.

President Scranton Here.

President Walter Scranton, of the Lackawanna Iron and Steel company, visited the south mill yesterday afternoon and inspected the plant. General Manager McKinnay and Superintendent Stanton accompanied him, and notice was taken of places where improved machinery might be put in. Whatever changes in the mill were suggested, they have not been given for publication as yet.

Neptune's Old Steamer.

The firm that furnishes the new steamer to the Neptunes will allow $500 on the old one. If the old one can be fitted up as good as new why not send it out for repairs and give it to some of the companies who could make good use of it?

To Visit Nebraska.

Dennis Grimes, of Nebraska, has been the guest for some days of his

NOTES OF SOUTH SIDE

Happenings of a Day That Will Interest Many Tribune Readers.

ELM STREET NEEDS A PIPE DRAIN

The Condition of Remington Avenue Breeding Disease—Stephen Guthrie, a Prominent Man, Dies—Hickey and Connell Are in Favor of Sewers—Personals and News Notes.

The appropriation of $3,630.13 for a pipe drain on Elm street was thrown out by the estimates committee, through the defection of Select Councilman Sanderson. The reason advanced by Mr. Sanderson does not comport with the true state of affairs. He is of the opinion that the pipe drain is not a necessity. A TRIBUNE reporter visited the vicinity today and can assure Mr. Sanderson that the place is badly in need of it. Remington avenue between Elm street and the Roaring brook is a veritable cesspool, and the stenches therefrom is enough to compel the attention of the board of health. The pipe drain must come, or the residents will be heard, and their appeals will be loud and deep. Houses for rent can find no tenants. Families permanently established there are suffering from malaria and the kindred ailments arising from proximity to unsanitary ground. Colonel Sanderson should visit the spot, and be satisfied as to the conditions existing.

Death of Stephen Guthrie.

Stephen Guthrie died Tuesday night in the prime of life, aged 42 years. About twenty years ago he came to Scranton and located on this side. He engaged in the most business and accumulated moderate wealth. He was proprietor of a large meat market on Cedar avenue, doing a flourishing business.

About two months ago an attack of indigestion confined him to his room. Other kidney complications arose and his health kept growing poorer. While it was not expected that he would eventually get well, not one dreamed that he would pass away so quickly. He was a member of the South Side board of trade, German lodge of Old Fellows, Leichkrantz Turn Verein, and Saengerbrunde. The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at 2 p. m. Services will be conducted by Rev. Mr. Weber at the Hickory Street Presbyterian church. Burial will be made in the Pittston Avenue cemetery.

Councilmen's Energetic Work.

Councilmen Hickey and Connell can be depended upon when the interests of the South Side need attention. Of course we mean no slur on Westphal or Robinson, who are on time when needed, too. It was too bad that the latter were not able to succeed in having the Elm street pipe drain appropriation put through. What the four of them need to tackle and work hard to bring to a successful finish is the completion of the sewer in the Eleventh district. It will require exertion and the tide will have to be stemmed; but the end justifies the means. There will be dissatisfaction and determined opposition, but the swaddling clothes of the southern part of the city have been cast off, and we are no longer living in a village. Let the work be done as economically as it can, and the question of expense will fade into insignificance compared to the ultimate benefit derived.

Fence War Renewed.

For some time John Schwank, the well known land dealer, and his stepson, George Grunberg, have been at variance, the question at issue being the title and possession of a strip of land to which both men claim ownership. The trouble is of long standing. Yesterday the two men were quarreling when Mr. Grunberg had Louis Schwank and eight other carpenters go down to the place in the early morning for the purpose of building a fence on lines given by Engineer Edmund Bartl. This time Mr. Schwank did not resort to violence. He sought the more pacific method and went up town to obtain an injunction to prevent what he considered a case of trespass. When he got back the fence was in position. Posts were sunk sixteen feet apart and hemlock boards nailed lengthwise. The fence is 300 feet in length.

Should Be Arrested.

Too much space has already been accorded to Mrs. Montgomery, but the people who live in the neighborhood of Alder street and Kirt alley are tormented night and day by her and a woman named Weiss. Their drunken revelry seems to be without end. The police are ready to rid the place of them, if a case is made out. These women are ingenious enough to break the law daily and still not go far enough to warrant the officers taking a hand in.

President Scranton Here.

President Walter Scranton, of the Lackawanna Iron and Steel company, visited the south mill yesterday afternoon and inspected the plant. General Manager McKinnay and Superintendent Stanton accompanied him, and notice was taken of places where improved machinery might be put in. Whatever changes in the mill were suggested, they have not been given for publication as yet.

Neptune's Old Steamer.

The firm that furnishes the new steamer to the Neptunes will allow $500 on the old one. If the old one can be fitted up as good as new why not send it out for repairs and give it to some of the companies who could make good use of it?

To Visit Nebraska.

Dennis Grimes, of Nebraska, has been the guest for some days of his brother, Roger Grimes, of Stone avenue. Mr. Grimes contemplates returning to his western home Monday, and his nephew, Motorman R. J. Grimes, yesterday obtained a leave of absence to accompany him. Mr. Grimes expects to be absent three or four weeks.

Had Ten Teeth Filled.

John Rothman, of Prospect avenue, visited a dentist in the central city yesterday, and before leaving the office of the man of muscle he had ten of his masticators removed. Mr. Rothman has passed his three-score mile post, but he went through yesterday's ordeal without the use of any of the pain-killers known to science.

Supplies for Connell Company.

Chief H. F. Ferber visited the rooms of the William Connell Hose company yesterday afternoon and ordered that body to prepare its two-wheel hose cart for removal. He will send it away for repairs. A load of supplies was left by him.

Shorter Paragraphs.

The manufacturing committee of the board of trade will meet tomorrow afternoon.

Division No. 9 Board of America, Ancient Order Hibernians, will receive Holy Communion in a body, with full uniform, on St. Patrick's morning in St. Joseph's church.

Alfred Shorten, 4 years old, a son of Joseph Shorten, of 1317 Pittston avenue, is ill with scarlet fever.

James Connors, over six feet tall, is afflicted with the measles. He escaped the scourge in his youth.

Oliver Burke, of Meadow avenue, was recovering from an attack of typhoid fever, but went out too soon and is down again with a relapse.

Mrs. Bodenstein, of Philadelphia, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. G. A. Miller.

The Scranton Athletic club will hold an important meeting this evening at the club rooms and every member is asked to attend. Several members will be initiated and important business will be taken up.

John Humphrey, of Pittston avenue, is sick with la grippe.

William Fink and wife, of Remington avenue, visited Plymouth yesterday.

FLOWERS GIVEN AWAY.

On Saturday, March 10, from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m., we will give a beautiful bouquet to every customer who buys 50 cents worth of goods. Mear &amp; Hagen, 415 Lackawanna avenue.

DIED.

COLEMAN.—In Scranton Wednesday afternoon, March 7, A. H. Coleman, aged 57 years. Funeral services will be held at his late residence, 625 Jefferson avenue, Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock; interment private.

RUANE.—In Scranton, March 7, 1894, Mary Ruane. Funeral services will be held at St. Patrick's church, Hyde Park, at 9:30 a. m. Friday, March 9.